Many changes have occurred this year at S.G. Some of these changes include the new attendance period (an extra 10 minutes during the school day in which an account is taken for all students present on that day), school beginning 5 minutes earlier (which accounts for girls coming to school with curlers in their hair), lunch being lengthened by 5 minutes, the sophomore belles, and the everchanging fashion designs.

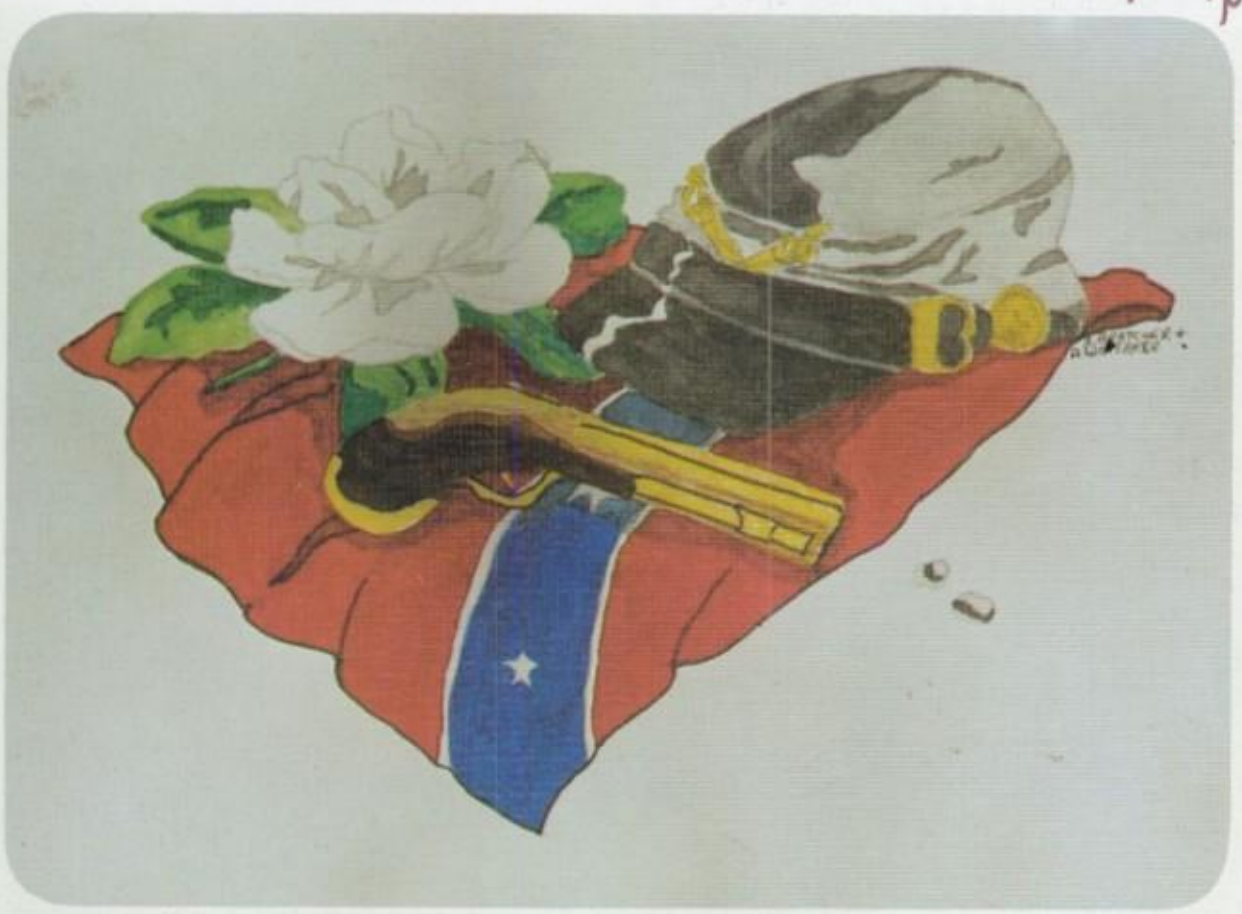
Respects Its Heritage

Best wishes to a very good person and student —
D. Hatcher



S.G., though ever changing, has kept virtually all of her traditions intact and steadfast. The Colonel, the bearer of S.G.'s flag, the Sentries, guards of the bell, and the Libertas have been the symbols of our school since its beginning in 1964.

The importance of one of S.G.'s unwritten traditions is rapidly discovered by the underclassmen. No one is to step on the Libertas before the trophy case. When someone does, that person is asked to scrub the entire surface with a toothbrush.

The 1977 S.G. Homecoming began with the tradition of decorating the halls and stairwells for color day. F.H.A.'s library hall was again named the best.

At the homecoming game, festivities began at kick-off when hundreds of red, white, and blue balloons were let off by both students and exes. During halftime, spectators excitedly awaited the announcement of the new homecoming queen, Laurie McKenzie. All eyes were then turned toward the sky from which lighted congratulations were sent to Laurie from an airplane.

The climax of S.G.'s homecoming was the Coronation Ball. "Jungle Boogie" was the theme with the cafeteria being transformed overnight to an authentic African Jungle, complete with vines, totem poles, and palm trees, thanks to the Student Council.

Emptiness Is . . .

Despite the fact that there was a smaller enrollment at S.G. this year, the halls and classrooms seemed just as crowded. Going to a football game or attempting to pass through the lunch line called for extreme patience and armored shoes. Elbow-room was an unknown luxury during this year's pep-rallies. The simple task of walking from class to class was very difficult and confusing, especially when a busy intersection was approached. Because of all this, finding time alone was a highly unusual experience.

1. Students manage to show their pride, even among the swarms of people at the football games. 2. In spite of the crowded conditions, Juniors still made their appearance at the pep-rallies.

OPPOSITE PAGE: 1. Once a seat was found in the freshman section, keeping it became a problem. 2. Finding a place to sit in the cafeteria was so hard many were forced to stand. 3. Jana Gordon enjoys a special moment alone.

For the first time in several years, S.G. was the first of the four schools in the annual Labor Day parade on September 5, 1977.

In this years Jaycee Jubilee Miss Garland contest, South Garland's Marlene Swindale received first runner-up and Cathy Hughes received second runner-up.

Other participants in the parade included the Colonel, the drill teams, the band, and a new addition to S.G., the Flag Corps.

The Play Comes Off

1

"The Doctor In Spite of Himself" by Moliére, an exhilarating fast moving farce done in the frolicking French tradition, was presented on Nov. 10th and 12th by the S.G. Theatre Dept. under the direction of Chuck Lytle, with technical direction and costumes by Susan Pierce. Heading the cast and crew of 52 students were production manager Sandra Westbrook; stage manager Jill Phillips; and Mike Spencer in the title role of Sganarelle. An unusual addition to the cast of characters was a mime troupe which led the play and helped the cast by acting as audience, crowds, and many other types of people throughout.

Our Boys Grow Up

These are no longer boys
As you can well see
No longer the "snips of puppy

As they once used to be.

They now dress with style
They play their game to win
And they know their directions
And they now wear silly grins.

Our Hearts

Pride is a necessary quality in every aspect of a person's life. It is especially essential for a student to have pride in his school. The students at South Garland show their pride by actively participating in the various spirit-filled activities. The pep-rallies are highly spirited with a larger turn-out than ever before. Contributing to this enthusiasm are the cheerleaders and the band, who work long hours to improve their performance.

"I Gotta Be Me" is sort of a catch-all phrase to describe those little things about each of us that make us unique. However we go about creating our individual personalities, they become evident to those who know us. We must have our own way to express ourselves in order to capture this uniqueness.

Changing Weather, Almost

2

The weather in Garland can change from eighty degrees one day to eighteen degrees the next. On sunny days students used the courtyard for eating and relaxing. On days when rain turned to ice, students found they had to scrape ice from their car windows. Some students found scraping to be a job while others found it more enjoyable.

Something Special

A friend is someone special. Friends can range from just good friends to a boyfriend-girlfriend relationship. Some people take their friends very casually while others take theirs more seriously. Friendships with others should be cherished throughout the years at South Garland and in future years.

Twas The Season

South Garland celebrated the Christmas season with a week of festivities. The celebration began as first period's began to decorate their doors with yuletide ornaments and pictures to win one of the three cash prizes. Theresa Pritchett's class was finally judged the winner by the impartial judges who were the counselors. The door won because of its imaginative doghouse decoration. The highlight of the week, however, was the annual Christmas party held in the S.G. cafeteria for children who participate in the Headstart program of Garland. The party was sponsored by the Senior Class and the Senior Parent Club. One hundred and twenty-two children between the ages of four and five attended the party along with 150 seniors. The seniors took their adopted child out for lunch and then to the S.G. cafeteria where a surprise visit from Santa Claus who turned out to be a jolly Larry Holmes in disguise.

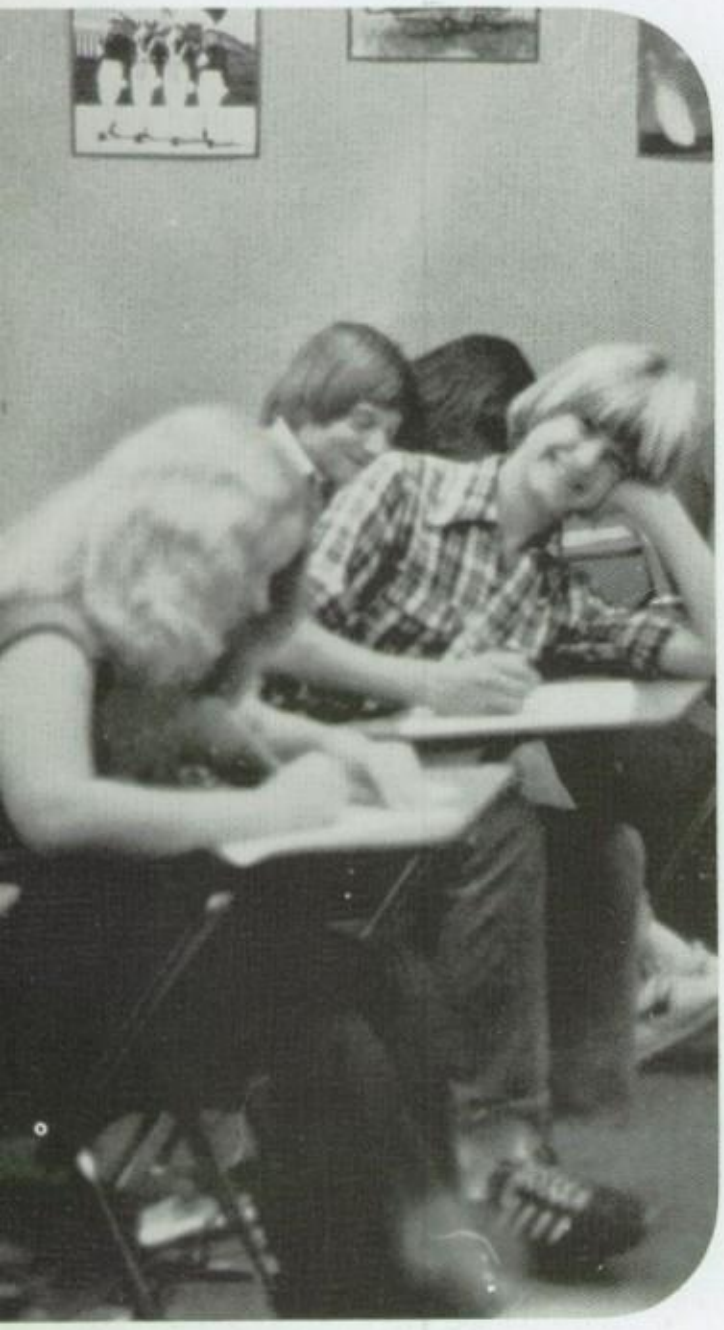
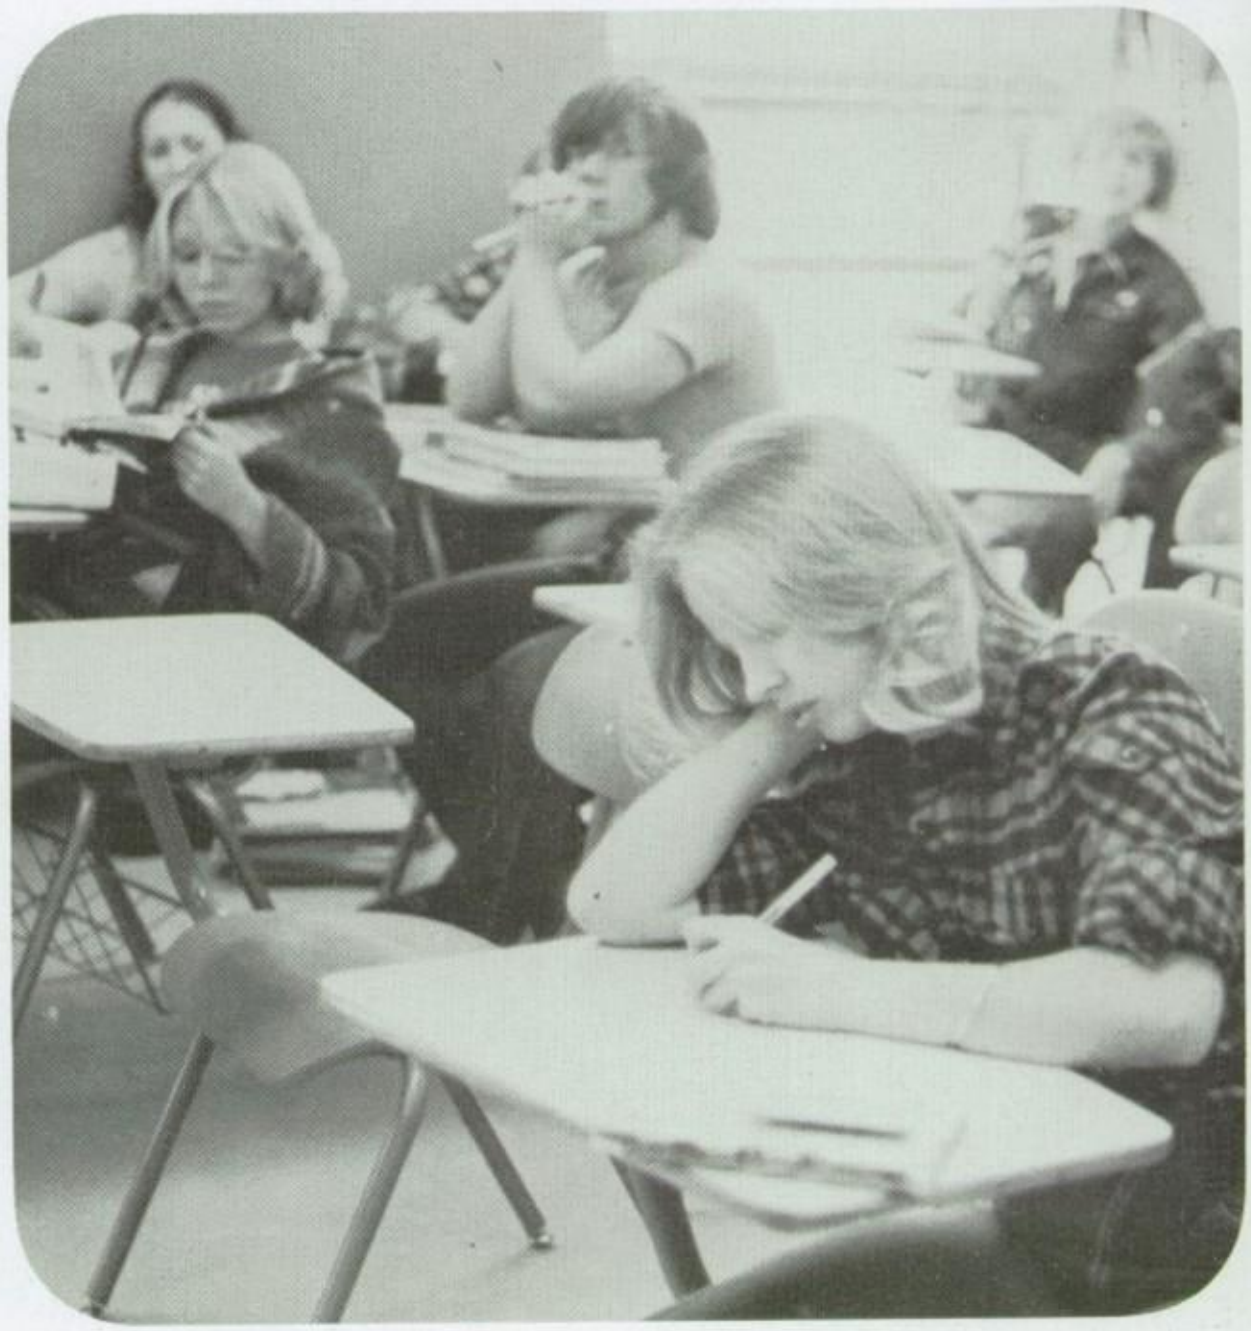
Part Of Our World





Is In A Classroom

The major part of a student's day is usually spent in a classroom. Studying, taking tests, and taking notes (and writing them) are how most classroom time is spent. During the remaining part of the class period, some students catch up on homework while others find a little humor to brighten up their day.

On-The-Job Training

Students at South Garland have the opportunity to add on-the-job training to their regular education, thanks to the vocational program.

Those involved in this program spend a half day attending classes and the other half at a job. Jobs of a wide variety are open to the students. The programs not pictured include Home Economics Cooperative Education, Child Care, and Industrial Cooperative Training. Participants in these programs really seem to enjoy them.

S.G. Restores Spirit

The spirit of the Old West came alive at S.G. on February 1, 1978, as the student body participated in a revival of that time by dressing in the attire of the day. Those thought to have the best costumes were Kevin Simmons and Mary Winker. Beverly Carmichael was named winner of the teacher competition. These western "dudes" were each awarded a blue ribbon by the Student Council, who judged them. Students tapped their feet and waved their hats during second and third periods at concerts performed by Andromeda, a country-western musical group, sponsored by the Senior Parent's Club. Before two different western backgrounds the Plantation Times staff shot pictures of students.

The 1978 Colonel Ball thrust everyone into a land of fantasy with its theme "The Emerald City." The spirit of the Colonel Ball began a few weeks before when the nominees received their invitations, which were passed out by N.H.S.

Decorations for the dance were organized and designed by teachers, Bob Oehler and M'Lou Browning, and painted by the Key Club and the Dixies. These decorations included the castle and the characters from the WIZARD OF OZ.

After long preparations, the presentations commenced at 7 p.m. on February 4 with the procession of the nominees into the S.G. auditorium. After the Master and Mistress of Ceremonies, Doug Mueller and Kathy Bryant, had announced all of the winners, and Vice-Principal, Larry Holmes, had awarded the all SGHS awards; the Colonel and His Lady, Jerry Sanders and Julie Baker, were named. Jerry and Julie then led the procession to the Colonel Ball, where Lo Dello played for the dancers.

The year 1977-1978 was a memorable one in many aspects. For some it was the beginning of new experiences and challenges, for graduating Seniors it was the end of a final chapter and the beginning of a new one. These encounters will not be forgotten, for our memories will be with us forever.

Seniors Sponsor Sandstone

And Annual Christmas Party

Every year the S.G. Seniors sponsor a musical group to perform at an assembly. This year the group was Sandstone. The Seniors also sponsor an annual Christmas party for the children involved in the program at Head Start. The Seniors take a child to lunch and then, back to school for gifts and a visit with Santa Claus.

As the Seniors of 1978 attend the flag ceremony, order their senior pictures, and attend college night, they realize that soon they will have to go out into the adult world. Some will seek employment right away and some will further their education. Yet, all will leave South Garland, which has prepared them for their change in life style. But as they go, they will keep with them the memories of the great times they had at South Garland.

New Traditions Must Be Learned

Bobby Jolly

Rose Holder

Steve Finigan

Jo Ann Hesker

I have dreamed and waited for this day
Through many a busy childhood year
But I stepped through the double doors
Feeling a tension much like fear.

And as I walk these crowded halls
Each door way seems exactly the same.
I might remember my teacher's face
But my schedule has only a name.

The bell rings hours too early, it seems.
All these lockers are identical blue-grey.
I know I'm late to class already
But what number does this schedule say?

I'm told, "Don't step on the Libertas."
"You really must buy this elevator pass."
"Please sing for me the Alma Mater."
But, people, I need to get to class!

I am really a part of South Garland High
Part of the red, the blue, the white.

With a spirited smile, I will triumph yet.
Yelling "Colonels" with all my might.

What will your Electric Bill be next month?

Or next winter?
Our BUDGET BILLING system can help you plan ahead. Owners of all-electric homes are eligible for this service, which averages the cost of your yearly electric bill over a twelve-month period.
You pay the same amount each month. If you use less electricity than you paid for, the credit is figured into your next year's monthly total. Of course, if you used more, you pay more.

Check with us for information. Don't let your electric bill catch you by surprise.

In striving for our goals,
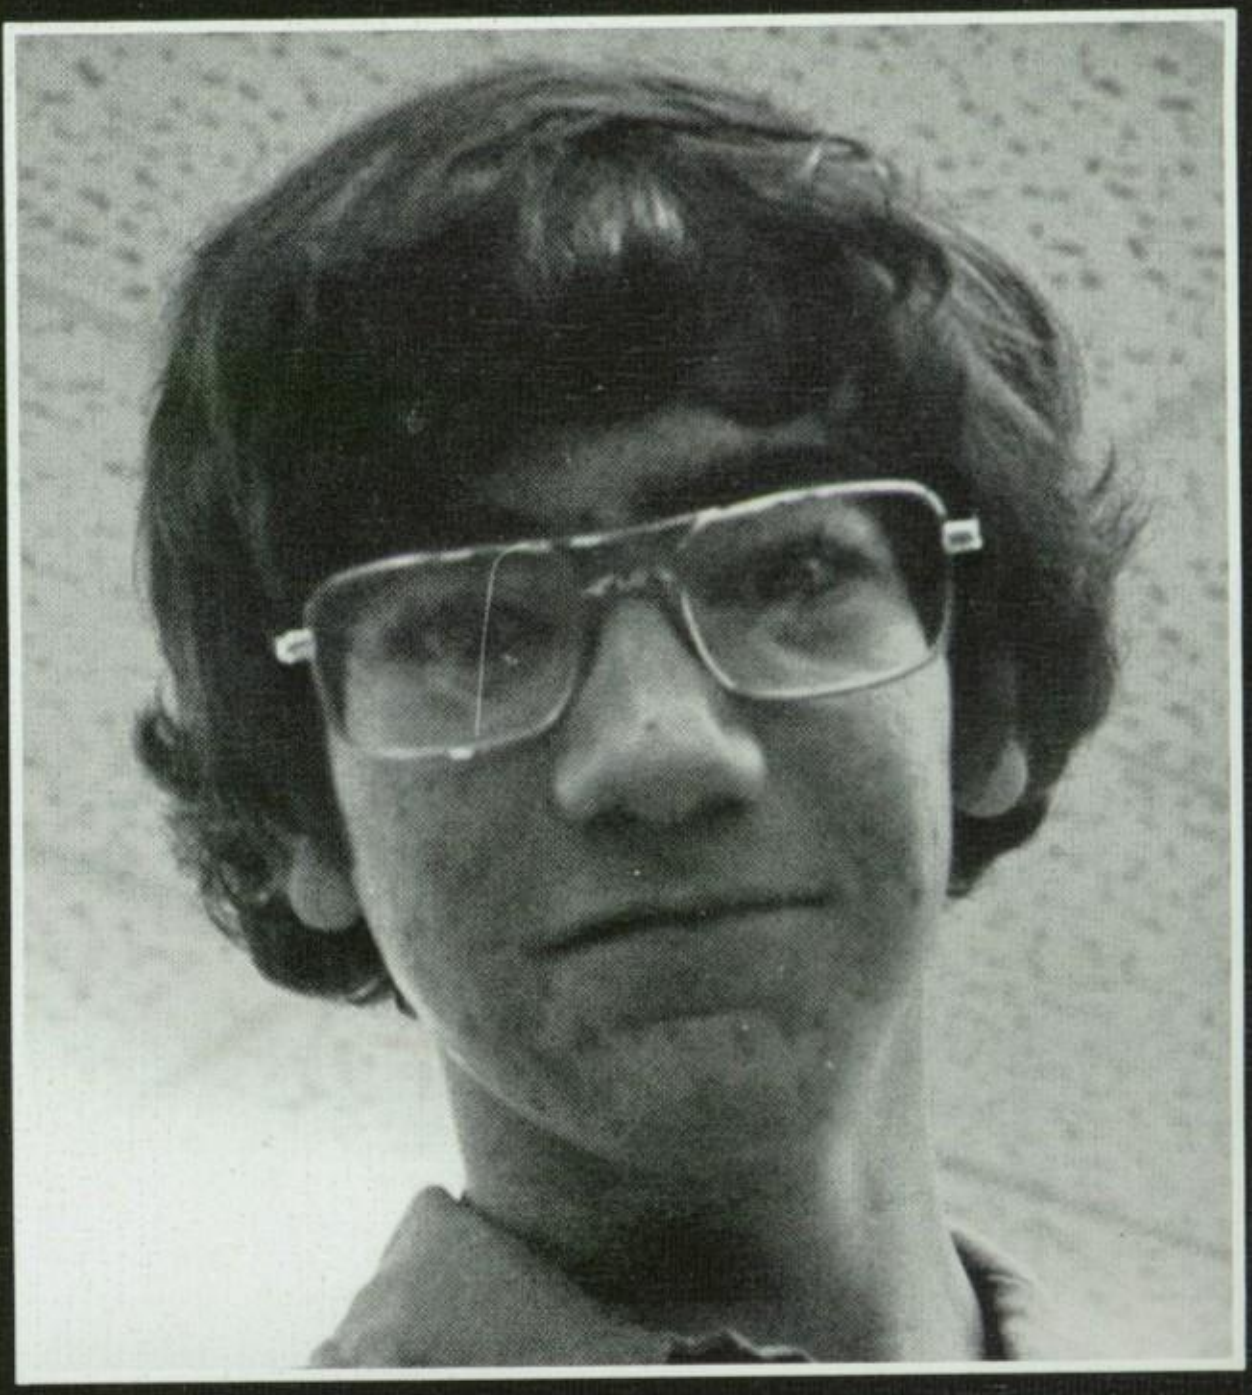
memories may
slip away,



but those special moments will linger.

Shadows of an old friend may be seen in a passing smile.

and dreams of the past in reality.

Change, after all, is a reflection of our past experiences.
